A New Season for Better Health

Timely Tip:
Less stress is better. Limit yours by planning and prioritizing your most important responsibilities. Plan fun activities to clear your mind. Use the “do-not-disturb” function on your phone to avoid constant interruptions.

Autumn is here! It's a good time to evaluate your health status: what can you do for better health?

Here's a start:

Beat the Flu Now is the time to get vaccinated against this season's flu. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) suggests those six months of age or older should get the vaccine each year. Vaccines will not make you sick, but you may have minor side effects that mirror flu for a day or two.

See your primary doctor or visit an Aetna-contracted retail location in New Jersey to get your vaccine. Be sure to show your medical ID card to ensure the provider processes the visit as a medical claim. Find out more about avoiding this season's flu at aetna.com or cdc.com/flu.

Go Organic According to the Organic Trade Association (OTA), organic foods are healthier for your body, better for society, and less expensive in the long run. Unlike traditional agricultural foods, organics are grown without pesticides, which potentially contain cancer-causing agents and heavy metals that can cause nerve damage.

Feel the price tag for organic foods is too high? Try a local farmer's market or natural food co-op for better pricing.

Avoid Technology at Bedtime Trouble sleeping? Using your phone or other electronic device before bed can disrupt REM sleep cycles and the production of melatonin, a sleep-promoting hormone. Check your device setting for a “nighttime” mode to adjust screening brightness; better yet, refrain from using devices for at least an hour prior to bedtime. Set sounds to “silent” so texts or emails won't wake you. Better sleep is possible!

1998 Women's Health and Cancer Rights Notice

The federal government mandates certain health coverage for breast reconstructive surgery in any health insurance plan that provides medical and surgical benefits for mastectomies. If your plan provides medical and surgical benefits for mastectomies, and you are receiving benefits in connection with a mastectomy and elect to have breast reconstruction along with that mastectomy, your plan must provide, in a manner determined in consultation between you and the attending doctor, coverage for the following:

- All stages of reconstruction of the breast on which the mastectomy was performed.
- Surgery and reconstruction of the other breast to produce a symmetrical appearance.
- Treatment of physical complications of the mastectomy, including lymphedemas.
- Breast prostheses, which is an artificial form of a breast to help reconstruct its original form.

These benefits are provided to the same extent as any other illness under your coverage, subject to deductible and coinsurance. All other features and benefits of your health insurance plan remain the same and are not impacted by this notification. Refer to benefit materials for details on applicable deductibles and coinsurance.
